Juan heads back here

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Damages exceeding those from Hurricane Elena and apparently one fatality can be attributed to the one-time hurricane and now tropical storm Juan.

Still threatening the Mississippi Gulf Coast after four days, the storm is projected by National Weather Service late Wednesday to cross over New Orleans and head for Hancock County Thursday.

However, no storm prediction in the past four days has been definitive.

Civil Defense Director Bobby Boudin said he wished it would "just move and get out of the area."

"This storm has taken such a zigzag path and changes so fast I am afraid to make any statements about civil defense plans," he said.

Boudin said if the weather dictated a need for shelters, they would be reopened today.

Shelters were opened Tuesday morning to accommodate area residents who were evacuated from their homes.

Boudin said approximately 75 persons stayed at shelters at Bay Junior High School, Waveland Elementary and Annunciation School until they were closed Wednesday.

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson estimated more than 3,000 Hancock County residents had to leave their homes because of extremely high waters.

"The major problem areas were Shoreline Park, Bayou Phillips, Garden Isles, Ansley and Pearlington," he said.

All available deputies were utilized to evacuate residents, Peterson added.

The sheriff's department evacuated several hundred persons in boats and the Dive Rescue van," he said.

Peterson stated that although the waters have receded, there are still many persons unable to return to their homes.

He also said there were no related injuries or deaths reported, with the exception on an accident victim on Interstate 10.

Kathleen Maher, 25, of Ocean Springs died Monday, Oct. 28 after a gust of wind apparently blew her vehicle into the rear of a parked tractor-trailer rig, Mississippi State Trooper David Kenny said.

Kenny reported that Maher, an employee of Mason Chamberlain, was approximately seven miles from National Space Technology Laboratories when the incident occurred.

HIGH WATERS

Peterson believes damages from

Juan will be more extensive than Hurricane Elena because of the wide spread flooding.

"Water is in numerous homes in the county, the beach area is severely damaged and there is such a large amount of debris," he said.

Roy Baxter reported at his marina located on the Pearl River the water had been recorded as high as 5.9 feet above mean high tide.

This level was recorded at 2:15 a.m. Monday, Oct. 28 but began falling at daylight, he said.

By 2:30 p.m. Tuesday the level had fallen to 5.3 feet and was below three feet Wednesday afternoon.

Rainfall in the area reportedly totaled more than six inches since Sunday.

Unofficial reports from Waveland indicated there had been 6.6 inches of rain through Wednesday afternoon.

ANIMALS WASHED ASHORE
Peterson also reported that he had several reports of animals washed up on the beach.

"There were many marsh hens, muskrats and racoons brought in by the storm," he said.

Peterson said although most law enforcement officials were involved in the evacuation of residents, several had also reported asking people to leave the beach area to afford some kind of protection for the animals.

Officials from the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation removed some of the animals and also wrote tickets to person in

Plans underway for new facility at Stennis offering 1,200 jobs

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Eagerly agreeing to take "whatever steps necessary" to ease the issuance of industrial revenue bonds, the Hancock County Board of Supervisors voted Wednesday almost before the motion was read.

The motion in support of an application for $20 million of industrial revenue bonds for construction of facilities at Stennis International Airpark was presented by Port and Harbor Commission Director James DeBlanc.

Stutz Motor Car Company of America, Inc. and Baldwin Aircraft Company are requesting the bonds to purchase 20 acres of land at Stennis for the development of an aircraft parts manufacturing facility.

DeBlanc said Baldwin expects to employ approximately 1,200 people in the next 18 months. He also said although many of these jobs will be high-technology, there will be on-site training.

Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner said the board is ready to aid in any way possible because of the eventuality of getting 1,200 new jobs in the county.

"I think it is great and the board is really enthused about the number of new jobs they are talking about," Supervisor Bert Courge said.

Ladner said the economic impact will be significant because of the support agencies that will also locate in the area.

Supervisor A. A. Keller said the board had previously met with company officials and they appeared to be ready to move into the county.

The commission passed the resolution recommending the support of the supervisors Monday in a special meeting.

"This is the biggest and best thing to happen to this county in a very long time," said DeBlanc.

He added that this project was entirely due to foresight of commissioners and supervisors in planning the industrial park.

Although negotiations are still underway regarding the purchase of the land and specifics of an agreement between the commission and Baldwin, every effort is being made by both parties to finalize plans.

The targeted date to begin operations is Jan. 1, said Bob L. Jordan, executive vice president of Baldwin.

"The reason why we chose Stennis is because of the huge airport we can use for testing of airplanes," said Michael Mak, Baldwin publicity agent.

Mak also said low labor costs contributed to the attractiveness of Hancock County for the production facility.

"The location of nearby ports and easy access makes Stennis the ideal area for our work," he said.

The purpose of the facility is to construct airplane fuselages which were recently developed and tested in Los Angeles, Calif., Mak added.

"The research and development is complete and we are ready to produce our fuselages," he said.

Mak said Baldwin currently has a $2.4 billion, three-year contract with the Peoples Republic of China for the delivery of the fuselages.

He added that there is an extended 20-year contract with the United States government.

In addition to construction of fuselages at the Stennis facility, Baldwin plans to develop and construct electronic defense components and light assault vehicles, Mak said.

City, county combine property, school tax collection service

By DENA BISNETTE

People who pay ad valorem, property and city school taxes to the city of Bay St. Louis as well as Hancock County can now handle all their tax transactions in one location.

The board of supervisors voted unanimously Wednesday to approve an interlocal agreement consolidating the two tax departments in Tax Assessor and Collector Edward Murtagh's office in the Courthouse Annex.

"This is not one political entity taking over another one. This is being done in a spirit of true cooperation in improving services to the public," Murtagh stated.

Bay Mayor Victor Frankiewicz

Jr. presented the agreement, which will be effective for two years and will be automatically renewed afterward unless the county or the city wishes to amend the contract or discontinue it.

He said the city will continue to collect privilege taxes and similar revenues, but all ad valorem, property, public utility and municipal separate school taxes will be collected by Murtagh's office, which will then turn the revenues over to the city.

Murtagh's office will be allowed to retain two percent of the city taxes to pay expenses involved in collection, including postage and printing.

for city tax notices, salaries and other costs.

The city will also continue to budget for tax assessment and collection, with that funding being set aside to help support the county tax office, the mayor said.

The two percent amount may be renegotiated if tax collections exceed $2 million for the county and the city combined.

In addition, the city's annual delinquent tax sale will be handled through Murtagh's office but the Bay council will continue to set the date and time, according to Frankiewicz.

Murtagh said his office will be

House grants NASA title to technology transfer center

The Mississippi Technology Transfer Center has cleared a major legal obstacle to beginning construction in Hancock County with the approval of legislation giving the National Aeronautics and Space Administration title to the $4 million, high technology facility.

The legislation, introduced by Representative Trent Lott, R-Miss., and approved Monday by the House of Representatives, authorizes NASA to accept title to the Mississippi Technology Transfer Center when constructed by the State of Mississippi at the National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County.

This year, the Mississippi Legislature appropriated $4 million for the facility, which it hopes will become a catalyst, agent for economic growth in the state.

"I am proud of the action taken by our governor and legislature in creating this forward-looking facility," Rep. Lott said during the House debate on his bill.

at the transfer center.

The center will be looking for new uses for remote sensing. One possible use at present is checking cropland or timber to find out which sections should be harvested first.

The legislation adopted by the House of Representatives was necessary because the State of Mississippi chose a federal facility, NSTL, as the site for the transfer center. Only federal agencies may hold title to buildings constructed on federal land.

Lott said that under the provisions of the bill, the State of Mississippi and NASA will occupy about half of the 50,000 square foot transfer center building.

NASA will assume full control and responsibility, including leasing the remaining space to high technology contractors.

"I am proud of the action taken by our governor and legislature in creating this forward-looking facility," Rep. Lott said during the House debate on his bill.

"We in Mississippi have a develop a broader base of high technology activities with the center."

Lott praised the NSTL facility and said the efforts of the transfer center will be a continuation of the efforts of the agencies already working together at NSTL.

"To the best of our knowledge, this is probably the only facility in the country with such a concentration of federal agencies devoted to space and science activities," he said.

Rep. Robert Walker, R-Penn., a member of the House Science and Technology Committee that introduced the bill, termed the Mississippi Technology Transfer Center "an innovative model of high technology for the future."

Lott thanked the committee for passing the bill and said he hoped it would be passed by the House of Representatives and the Senate.

Port and Harbor awards airport paving contract

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Close supervision is the plan to prevent problems with an upcoming asphalt paving project at Stennis Industrial Airport.

Following its engineer's recommendation the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission Monday accepted a low bid for paving a parking apron.

The low bidder was Barriere Construction Company, Inc. of New Orleans with a bid of $443,215 for the 850'x100' parking apron.

The commission has reported problems with recent various asphalt paving jobs at Stennis, including one project that is currently in litigation.

Engineer Carlos Cordon of Borgen Engineering said he believes the commission will not have any problems with Barriere because of past experience with the company.

"As a contractor he is responsive to the needs of the commission," Cordon said.

Barriere has previously completed two contracts from the commission for approximately $150,000 including overlaying the access road at Stennis and construction of the entrance at Port Bienville Industrial Park.

"After informing Barriere of a problem area at the port entrance, they came in that same afternoon and began correcting it," he said.

"Normally the contractors are responsible and know when they are not meeting the specifications and are willing to correct it," Cordon added.

Cordon also said both previous Barriere contracts had been completed well within the contract time.

"I don't expect Barriere to be any different in this go around," he said.

Cordon also said that the full-time construction surveillance and contract administration services that will be performed by Borgen Engineering will probably prevent any problems.

Barriere's second bid for the project reflects a $37,000 reduction from their first bid on the project which was rejected. The original bid of approximately $480,000 was higher than the commission wanted to pay for the project.

The parking apron was originally estimated to cost between $285,000 and $315,000. Bids were solicited for both rigid (concrete) and flexible (asphalt) surfaces.

Although nine sets of specifications were issued the first time, Barriere was the only bidder.

The second set of bid advertisement had two responses. In addition to Barriere, Necaise Construction Company bid $511,955.

Both bids were for the asphalt surface.

Cordon said the lack of participation could be contributed to Federal Aviation Administration requirements.

"This same amount of asphalt on a highway project with the same specifications would cost a lot less," he said.

Included in the project along the taxiway parking apron is paving of portions of two roads, installing nine driveways and several culverts and extensive drainage work.

In view of the FAA regulations and the additional work Cordon said he did not believe the bid to be excessively high.

Cordon expects the work to be completed well in advance of the expiration of the 120-day contract.

The taxiway parking apron will be located adjacent to the future site of a Smith and Smith aircraft modification plant.

Beach hearing date changed

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Beachfront Technical Advisory Council has changed the date of its Nov. 7 public hearing to Nov. 14.

The hearing will begin at 7 p.m. in the courtroom of the Hancock County Courthouse.

According to Jeff Taylor of Gulf Regional Planning Commission, the hearing was rescheduled due to conflicts for some of the consultants involved, particularly those who will address the problem of erosion along the beachfront.

The agenda for the hearing, which calls for presentation of the council's plans for long-term beach development and shore protection, is unchanged, Taylor added.

Highway death linked to hurricane winds

BY DENA BISNETTE

High winds from Hurricane Juan have been linked to one highway fatality in Hancock County.

Kathleen Maher, 25, of Ocean Springs, died shortly after 7 a.m. Tuesday on Interstate-10 about four miles east of the I-10-Hwy. 607 intersection.

She was pronounced dead at the scene at 8:15 a.m. by Hancock County Coroner Harold Stiglet, who said Maher was apparently enroute to her job at Mason Chamberlain when the accident occurred.

According to State Trooper David Kenney, a gust of wind apparently blew Maher's 1973 Chevrolet into the rear of a 18-wheeled truck parked beside the westbound lane.

The truck had broken down and was parked about two feet, eight inches from the white line marking the road shoulder.

According to Kenney, the truck driver had taken precautions to make his vehicle visible in the storm, including placing three triangular road markers.

The accident remains under investigation. Kenney was assisted at the scene by George Burleson and Leo Ladner of the Hancock County Sheriff's Department.

Animals take beatings from nature and then man

Hurricane Juan caused many marshland animals to be misplaced and be washed up on our shores.

Raccoons, muskrats, marsh hens, and other animals fought for their lives in the storm and reached land, thinking they were safe only to be further tortured.

These animals did not come to our shores from the marshlands by their own choice, nature forced them to do so.

So what happens? Some idiots shoot, stab, club, chase and catch these helpless creatures who are then still fighting for their lives.

These animals are protected by state and federal laws and should not be tampered with.

Law enforcement agents were very busy trying to rescue residents from the flooded areas of the county, and at the same time receiving telephone calls from concerned residents reporting the inhumane treatment which these desperate marshland survivors of Hurricane Juan were now having to endure.

Some people just do not have feelings for nature, and they themselves need to be tortured likewise.

We understand several of the culprits were ticketed, and we hope the judge will throw the book at them.

It is wished that those who did the harassment and were not caught, have many sleepless nights.

President proclaims Oct. 31 Unicef Day

By Presidential proclamation, Oct. 31st is National Unicef Day. This is an ideal time to remember the children of the world by putting your caring into action.

Every gift can make a difference. When you give your dollars to Unicef — the United Nations Children's Fund — they turn into clean water, good food, health, education, and social services for millions of the world's poorest children.

Since 1950, when a Pennsylvania Sunday School class collected $17 on Halloween, Trick-or-Treat for Unicef has become an American tradition.

As the program has expanded, so has the range of activities. Ten million Americans remember Unicef on National Unicef Day by participating in activities in their schools, churches, and clubs.

And in the last 35 years, they have raised more than $80 million for needy children in Asia, Africa, and Latin America.

This year, Unicef is pioneering a Child Survival Revolution that can save the lives of seven million children a year.

The means to this miracle are four low-cost methods of healthcare that parents can use, even in the remotest areas, without access to professional facilities.

Unicef's immunization campaign alone has the capacity to eliminate measles, one of the biggest childhood killers.

With the potential so close at hand for saving the lives of millions of children and improving the lives of millions more, Unicef needs your help this Halloween more than ever.

Please be generous.

A SAFE AND FUN NIGHT

The football season has only a few more weeks for local high schools.

It will be homecoming for the St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws on Friday night when they host the Pirates of Pass Christian.

The Rocks are rolling again with two victories in a row giving Stanislaus a 4-3 record.

A homecoming parade is scheduled this afternoon at 4 p.m. followed by a pep rally at 7:15 p.m. on the Rocks' campus.

On Friday at 5:15 p.m. there will be a homecoming party for alumni and friends of St. Stanislaus.

The Rocks play host to Pass Christian who registered their second victory of the season last week.

The game gets underway with kick-off at 7:30 p.m.

The high flying Tigers of Bay High got a big scare last Friday at their homecoming against the St. Martin Yellow Jackets.

Bay High had to come from behind in the final minutes of the game to keep their string of victories intact before a homecoming crowd.

This Friday, the Tigers will face the Hancock North Central Hawks in an intra-county game.

The Hawks traveled a long way from home last Friday to bring home a victory over George County.

The game in Hawk stadium should be a good one from the opening kick-off to the final buzzer.

Rains, it seems we have had our share of water in recent weeks.

The rains caused by Hurricane Juan just added too many inches already recorded.

Many residents suffered water damages from Hurricane Juan, which is something we did not get from Hurricane Elena.

In all probability, in dollars and cents out of residents' pockets, more damage may have been caused by Juan than Elena in Hancock County.

In Pearlinton for instance, the gauge at Roy Baxter's Marina on Pearl River registered 5.9 feet at 2:15 a.m. Monday morning.

This was not quite a foot under the 6.8 reading during the Spring Flood of 1983.

Baxter said he checked the gauge again at 5 a.m. and it still read 5.9 feet and began to fall at daybreak.

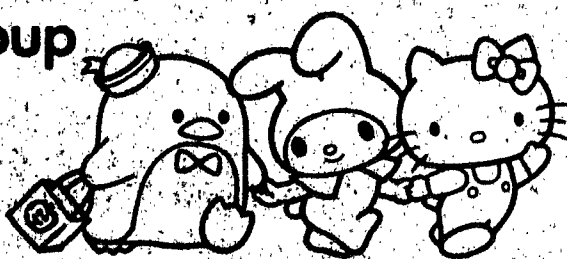

The veteran of Pearlinton said this was the highest water he had seen on the Pearl River since Hurricane Camille.

The gauge rose again to 5.3 feet on Tuesday afternoon and began to fall.

In 30 hours Baxter's rain gauge registered 4.5 inches from Hurricane Juan Sunday and Monday.

Additional water was added Monday night and Tuesday showing over 6 inches in the western Hancock County Community.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

If it concerns you, it concerns us

Many contributed to success of Humane Society endeavor

October 28, 1985

To The Editor:

Many people helped make the Hancock County Humane Society's Pumpkin Carving Contest a success last Saturday.

People contributed cakes and cookies for the Bake-Sale; Randy Powell donated pumpkins; Glen did the face-painting; and Markell Industries donated the prizes for the carving competition.

Dr. and Mrs. Bert Chevis and Dr. James Mahler acted as judges in the pumpkin carving contest.

The monies raised last Saturday will be used to financially assist the society's work for animals throughout the county.

The society's next event will feature a spaghetti dinner and will include a bake-sale, door prizes and dancing.

The date will be announced shortly. We hope many people will come and enjoy themselves on that occasion.

Beginning in December, the Flea Market will open a special boutique for Christmas.

Lots of wonderful items will be on sale and it is hoped that people in the area will choose to do their Christmas shopping at the market.

No student ever hit by vehicle at Bay Junior High location

Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Editor:

This letter should be to the residents of Breath Lane, Hickory Lane, Timberlane, Bay View Court, McDonald Lane and Cedar Lane; the city is finally cutting us off from Dunbar Avenue, where there is a signal light and we can cross Highway 90 in safety. We will have to use the Highway!

Speaking to other mayors on the Coast, this is the only town that can close streets without advertising and listening to residents. First Ruella and now Ulman Avenue. I guess the mayor and councilmen will let the Junior High School put a fence across it as they let St. Augustine Seminary do on Ruella.

The children at the Junior High are from sixth grade on up. They dare you to hit them and stand in the middle of Ulman and hold conversation and laugh while six cars are waiting to go by. Are the children unteachable? Maybe Highway 90 should be closed because very small children are crossing there.

Our police chief may not know that Ulman Avenue was Highway 90 for years. We only had one school at the time from the first grade to the 12th grade, and not one child has ever been hit.

That is going back 50 years til in the 1950's when Highway 90 was moved.

Respectfully,
Leontine C. DeRocha
Bay St. Louis

(Editor's Note: Bay St. Louis Police Chief Ray Murphy has emphasized that closing Ulman Avenue during school hours was proposed only as a last resort to protect the children who must cross the artery between classes. The street at this time remains open.)

Unicef Halloween gifts, a 35-year-old tradition

Dear Editor:

The diseases of poverty take the lives of 40,000 of the world's children every day. That's 15 million every year, a staggering loss to the entire world. The numbers may seem overwhelming, but Unicef — the United Nations Children's Fund — can prevent half of these children's deaths. And the citizens of Bay-Waveland area can help.

How many of you remember the little orange box on Halloween? Chances are good that you went "Trick-or-Treating for Unicef" as a child, and that your children are continuing the 35-year-old tradition today.

Those nickels, dimes and dollars we collected have raised over $80 million for needy children in developing countries.

But there are still millions of children in Asia, Africa, and Latin America who desperately need our help on National Unicef Day.

On Oct. 31, National Unicef Day, Bay-Waveland citizens of all ages can show their concern for the children of the world by supporting our Bay-Waveland Youth for Unicef.

The local youth will be "Trick-or-Treating for Unicef in the Bay-Waveland area."

If you are missed and would like to make a donation send it to Bay-Waveland Youth for Unicef, c/o P.O. Box 230, Bay St. Louis, MS. 39520.

Sincerely,
Kathy Chapman

REPORT FROM THE OFFICE OF ATTORNEY GENERAL ED PITTMAN

The Attorney General's Office of Consumer Protection issued a safety alert to parents and guardians of children who go trick-or-treating on Halloween:

The Consumer Protection Division particularly emphasized the importance of careful examination of all treats before children are allowed to eat them. It should be stressed to children that they should not eat any of their treats before they get home.

Attorney General Ed Pittman recommended the following safety tips to parents and children:

1) Costumes, masks, beards, and wigs should be labeled "Flame Resistant." Although this does not mean that they will not catch fire, such labeling indicates that they will resist burning and should extinguish quickly once removed from the ignition source. Flimsy materials and outfits with big, baggy sleeves or billowing skirts should be avoided to minimize the risk of contact with candles or other sources of fire.

2) Costumes should be light and bright enough to be clearly visible to motorists. For greater visibility in dusk or darkness, costumes can be decorated with reflective tape which will "glow" in the beam of a car's headlights. Bags or sashes should also be light colored and decorated with reflective tape. Reflective tape is usually available in hardware, bicycle, and sporting goods stores. Children should also carry flashlights to see—and be seen—more easily.

3) Costumes should be short enough to prevent children from tripping and falling. Children should also wear safe, sturdy shoes. Mother's high heels are not a good idea for safe walking.

4) Hats and scarfs should be tied securely to prevent them from slipping over children's eyes.

5) Apply a natural mask of cosmetics rather than have a child

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

JACKSON—Bill Allain, nearing the mid-point of his four-year term, is just now feeling comfortable in the job, and lately has started to show some of the spunk he had when he was attorney-general.

You will recall, of course, that two years ago, the sensational allegations dug up by some wealthy Republicans accusing Allain of homosexual conduct in his past life had just been unleashed in the gubernatorial race between Allain and GOP nominee Leon Bramlett.

Even though Allain was not nearly as tough in his denial of the allegations as many thought he should have been, the voters gave him 55 percent of the total vote, possibly only four or five points less than he would have gotten before the charges were made.

The whole affair left a cloud over the governorship, to the point that some, including a politically knowledgeable Ole Miss history professor, predicted that Allain wouldn't last more than a year in the office.

The speculation back then, after the election, was that Lt. Gov. Brad Dye would be sitting in an ideal spot to become the dominant figure in the Allain administration until inheriting the office. That hasn't happened.

For months after Allain took office, he became virtually an invisible governor, giving rise to the possibility that he was so inhibited by the morality allegations that he had lost all desire to govern. During the 1984 legislative session, while numbers of newly elected lawmakers pleaded for him to step forward and lead, he remained closeted in his office.

Somewhat miraculously, the bill putting more power over into the executive branch by taking lawmakers off executive boards passed largely without any help from Allain.

By the time the 1985 session arrived, Allain began to stir more in response to charges he was providing no leadership. But he put himself in the ridiculous position of opposing many lawmakers who carried his case in 1984 by drawing the line on a teacher pay raise no higher than $1,500 and no new taxes.

His veto of the $2,400 teacher raise and $67 million in taxes and the subsequent override by the Legislature seemed to be the ultimate rebuke of Allain's ambivalence and targeted him for recriminations from teacher forces.

But surprisingly, his opposition to taxes and his stance against the highly popular teacher pay demands won respect from many Mississippians who had opposed Allain's election.

Since then, his advocacy of a new state constitution, and his move to force a showdown next year on amending the constitution to permit gubernatorial succession have revived a lot of the old Allain feistiness that made him something of a folk hero as attorney general.

His threat to resurrect the initiative and referendum provision in the state constitution that was thrown out on a technicality 63 years ago is a fascinating gambit by Allain that very well could throw the Legislature into a tailspin.

If it would succeed, the legislative Old Guard's control on what becomes law in this state would have to contend with a tough new adversary: "people power."

Allain is obviously getting a lot of enjoyment out of being a key player in this new scenario, and leaving the door open to speculation that he might be a contender for reelection if gubernatorial succession encompasses the incumbent governor.

On that score, Allain may have been doing a lot more planning than any one in state politics imagined.

Last week, one state official who is in contact with pollster Dick Morris, Allain's campaign consultant and pollster in 1983, learned that Allain has already been testing public reaction to his administration.

Morris intimated that Allain was in "much better shape" with Mississippians than is Gov. Bill Clinton in Arkansas. Clinton, soon up for reelection, is using Morris' services.

Allain, this column learned, is also planning another poll around February next year, a move which could be a definite indicator that he is not eliminating himself from the 1987 governor's race, should he have a crack at succession.

Lawmakers and other political observers out around the state have been saying for some time that those too close to the Jackson scene underestimate Allain's popularity with rank and file Mississippians.

They very well could be right.

Mini-courses scheduled by Scott Marine Center

Two courses remain on the marine science mini-course schedule for 1985 offered by Gulf Coast Research Laboratory at its J. L. Scott Marine Education Center in Biloxi.

"Seafoods—From the Sea to the Table" will be taught on four consecutive Thursday nights from 7-9 p.m. beginning on Oct. 31 by Dr. David W. Cook and Angela Dicharry of GCRL's Seafood Quality and Technology Laboratory.

The course is designed for individuals with limited knowledge about how to purchase, prepare and preserve local seafoods. Commercial processing methods as well as oyster shucking, crab picking, shrimp freezing by the consumer will be covered.

Dr. William E. Hawkins, head of the laboratory's microscopy section, will teach "Marine Biology and Medical Science" on four consecutive Tuesday nights from 7-9 p.m. beginning on Nov. 5.

The mini-course will provide an overview of the contributions that have been made to medicine through research in marine biology. Topics will include structure and function of nerve and muscle in marine organisms, renal and visual function in fishes and use of marine organisms as models for human diseases.

GCRL's non-credit mini-courses are offered for the learning pleasure of adults, and prior knowledge of the subject matter is not required. Fee for these non-credit classes is $20 each. Interested persons are asked to contact the Marine Education Center at 374-5550 for additional information and pre-registration.

Attorney General's Report.....

Children should not enter homes or apartments unless they are accompanied by an adult.

9) Those receiving trick-or-treaters should remove anything that could be an obstacle from steps, lawns, and porches. Candlelit jack-o-lanterns should be kept away from landings and doorsteps where costumes could brush against the flame. Indoor jack-o-lanterns should be kept away from curtains, decorations, or other furnishings that could be ignited.

10) Parents should encourage home parties and celebrations instead of trick-or-treating.

For more information on this and other consumer related matters, please contact the Attorney General's Office of Consumer Protection by calling 354-6018 or our toll free number 1-800-233-5615.

wear a loose fitting mask which might restrict breathing or obscure vision. If a mask is used, make sure eye-holes are large enough to allow full vision and make sure the mask fits securely.

6) If swords, knives, and similar costume accessories are carried, they should be of soft flexible material.

7) Smaller children should always be accompanied by an older responsible child or an adult. All children should use the sidewalk rather than walk in the street, and they should walk, not run from house to house. Children should be cautioned against running out from between parked cars, or across lawns and yards where ornaments, furniture, or clotheslines present dangers.

8) Children should only go to homes where residents have outside lights on as a sign of welcome.

SAFETY POSTERS—Safety posters by first through fifth grade students from public and private schools in Bay-Waveland and Hancock County show results of talks on safety given by Matt Karl, center, Hancock County deputy sheriff. Those checking posters are, from right, Sheriff Ronnie Peterson, Karl, and Hancock Investigator Alvin Ladner. Winners were announced on Wednesday in the poster contest sponsored by the sheriff's office. Local merchants donated toys and prizes for the winners. Karl said he received numerous entries on such subjects as Halloween, drugs, alcohol, home swimming, neighborhood watch, fire prevention, and kidnapping safety. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

$60,654 alternative approved to end medical center site delay

BY DENA BISNETTE

The architectural firm working on Hancock Medical Center has had to select a second alternative to drain the project site.

Originally, the architects, Gresham, Smith and Partners, had proposed allowing the site to dry out by itself, but weather has not cooperated.

"We had hoped that a normally dry October would cure the problem for us at minimal expense," said Phillip Shaw of Shaw-Walker Consulting of Gulfport, an architectural engineering firm providing site work for the architects.

Instead, Shaw told the board of supervisors Wednesday that the problem can be cured permanently with an alternative that will cost about $60,654.

The alternative calls for excavating the soil on the building, parking lot and access road site and replacing it with sand.

The wet soil will not compact enough to permit work on the foundation but wet sand will compact, Shaw said.

"This alternative will enable the contractor to resume work immediately after the excavations are complete and the sand is in place," Shaw said.

The contractor is Buck's Incorporated and Claude Hogan of Waveland.

The costs of excavations and sand compaction will be paid from a contingency fund set aside for the medical center.

"If we had been able to anticipate this, the procedure might have been included in the original bid," Hospital Administrator Phillip Langston said.

Soil removed from the foundation site and other areas will be spread in the lower parts of the site that will be used for lawn or later expansion after construction is completed.

The board of supervisors approved Shaw's proposal contingent upon receipt of a written resolution from the hospital board.

Langston said verbal approval has already been obtained.

Board of Supervisors President A.A. Kellar said he and other board members approved the move "with reluctance" about spending part of the contingency fund, but added that the board feels that the medical center project should be allowed to get underway as soon as possible.

able to handle the extra load with one additional full-time employee and two additional part-time employees during peak collection months.

He said the two percent of the city collections will probably amount to about $38,000, which will help to pay those salaries.

"Overall, I feel this will be a good move for everybody concerned, because it will improve service to both city and county residents," Frankiewicz said.

He said the system is expected to save money for both entities as well as increase efficiency.

"We are the first to do this on the Gulf Coast. It's really made possible because Eddie Murtagh is such a good tax collector," Frankiewicz said.

"We have a lot of confidence in him, particularly since he will be taking on more responsibility without getting any more personally from doing so," the mayor added. "This is the first step toward a county unit system," Board President A.A. Kellar said.

Kellar, who has expressed opposition to the unit system as a whole, said he approved the move to consolidate tax collections.

In another tax-related matter, Murtagh reported that South Mississippi Planning and Development District will assist the county in preparation and mailing of tax receipts.

In addition, the county will become one of the first in Mississippi to prepare and mail its own Homestead Exemption forms, saving about $3,000 in the process.

In other business Wednesday, the supervisors:

—Approved the law firm of Gex, Gex and Phillips to defend the county, Sheriff Ronald Peterson, and several Waveland police officers in a lawsuit filed by David John Carver of Waveland, alleging false arrest during a drug undercover investigation called "Operation Dawnbuster";

Legion unit encourages safe holiday

Waveland American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 77 will host a Halloween Open House at the post home on Coleman Avenue beginning at 6 p.m. Thursday.

"We are emphasizing a safe and happy Halloween for the children of our area," said Mrs. Irene Giacconi, chairman of the unit's Children and Youth Committee.

Giacconi offers the following safety tips for parents and children for a safe holiday:

—Never trick-or-treat alone.

—Young children should be accompanied by older children or adults.

—Parents should know where the children plan to go.

—Select neighborhoods which are well lighted.

—Carry flashlights.

—Do not eat treats until they have been checked by adults.

—Avoid houses without lights.

"People who want to treat the young will have either porch or yard lights or other lights indicating trick-or-treaters are welcome," Giacconi added.

She urged youngsters to patronize the organized open houses, carnivals or parties designed to promote safe and happy Halloween observance.

County Supervisor Bert Courrage said because of the possible health hazard from dead animals in the debris, clean up work is underway but will be carefully documented for disaster aid reports.

LOOTING

While out rescuing stranded residents in Shoreline Park sheriff's deputies received a call regarding possible looters in the area.

The caller reported a truck had been stopping at flooded homes along several streets.

Deputies Nathan Hoda, Corky Hoda and George Burleson took into custody two juveniles in connection with the looting.

They recovered two bicycles and a couple of outboard motor gas tanks.

Both juveniles were charged with grand larceny and turned over to the youth court.

Investigator Delbert Seay is in charge of the investigation.

UNICEF collection to be made tonight

By ELLIS GUEVAS

Bay-Waveland Youth for UNICEF will be "Trick-or-Treating" for the United Nations Children's Fund on Halloween night.

The local collection for UNICEF was an annual event in the Bay-Waveland area, and is being re-activated.

Youths interested in participating are asked to meet at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Youth Organization's building behind the church between 6-6:30 p.m. on Halloween night for an assigned area to collect.

The CYO is this year's host group, and Cathy Chapman, CYO director, said refreshments will be available for those participating in the drive.

Collection boxes, identification, a mapped area, literature on UNICEF, and groups will be assigned an area to collect.

Some 50-75 boys and girls from fifth through 12th grades are usually involved in the UNICEF collection in the Bay-Waveland area.

President Ronald Reagan has proclaimed October 31st as National UNICEF Day.

The United Nations Children's Fund collections are used for clean water, good food, health, education, and social services for millions of the world's poorest children.

Since 1960, when a Pennsylvania Sunday School class collected $17 on Halloween, Trick-or-Treat for UNICEF has become an American tradition.

As some 10 million Americans remember UNICEF on Halloween, clubs, churches, and schools, in the last 35 years have raised more than $80 million for needy children in Asia, Africa, and Latin America.

National celebrities serve as National UNICEF Day chairpersons, and in 1985 it is Cicely Tyson.

Co-chairmen for the Bay-Waveland area will be named for the local UNICEF collection.

The local UNICEF drive is open to all youths of the area.

For further information call 467-4005 from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. or 467-6729.

Persons not contacted during the UNICEF drive wishing to make a contribution can send it to: Bay-Waveland Youth for UNICEF, c/o P.O. Box 230, Bay St. Louis, MS. 39520

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Bay St. Louis High School Tigers play their first game in the unofficial county championship Friday as they clash with the Hancock North Central Hawks.

Bay Head Coach Cleveland Williams said he expects this week's game to be the most evenly matched the Tigers will play this season.

The Hancock game will be the Tigers' first in the unofficial championship. The Hawks have already defeated St. Stanislaus, leaving Friday night the deciding factor if Bay High does not win.

If Bay High wins, the county's best will be the victor of the Nov. 8 game between the Tigers and St. Stanislaus.

The Tigers will have to rebound from a poorly executed game against St. Martin that resulted in a narrow 14-13 victory last week.

Bay High is not taking this game lightly by any means, Williams said.

"Even though school was closed because of the storm, we have continued practicing. We know we have to be tough to take on the Hawks," the coach said.

"To us, this is one of the two most important games of the season. The other one is St. Stanislaus."

"What happened to our execution last week was probably the result of having a week off. We're going to be ready for the Hawks," Williams added.

"It doesn't really take that much to get our boys excited about this game."

Although Bay High is an undefeated 3-A school and Hancock is a 5-2 4-A school, the teams are similar in playing ability and style.

"This game should be pretty exciting because we are so evenly matched. In fact, errors should make up whatever difference there is. The team that makes less mistakes will be victorious," Williams said.

"Everything goes in this ballgame."

He said the Hawks have a good balanced attack, although they do not pass as much as they run.

"I have a lot of respect for Coach Irvin Favre and his ballclub. They have a lot of good backs, like Drew Malley, Charles Burton and Stanley Jourdan."

"Brett Favre can pass and Tommy Lull is a pretty good receiver," the coach said, "but the Hawks are basically a running ballclub."

The Tigers have also been using mostly running plays on offense but have shifted to passing more in recent games, particularly last week's game against St. Martin.

"On defense it will be our Wing T against their Wishbone," Williams added.

While tactics may be similar for the two rivals, point spreads are not. The Tigers have gained 168 points this year in seven games, while the Bay High Nasty Bunch Defense has given 38 points.

The Hawks have outscored Bay High on offense with 188 points in seven games, but the Hancock defense has given up 90 points.

Offensive starters for Bay High are expected to include Butch Pierce, Trace McRaney, Geja Carter, Craig Breland, Greg Necaise, Dennis Dear, Willie Lewis, Louis Burton, Robert Hargett, and Quentin Bell.

Defensive starters include Lewis, Trace McRaney, Carter, Hargett, Jerry Island, Burton, Breland, Necaise, Dear and Jessie Parker. Gametime is 7:30 p.m. at Hancock North Central stadium.

Are the Hawks ready for undefeated Tigers?

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Preparing for Friday's game against the undefeated Bay High School Tigers, Hancock North Central Hawk coaches believe they have the game plan "to beat the Bay."

The question is will they have time to get it across to the players.

Bad weather earlier this week caused the Hawks to miss two days of practice.

"Missing practice Monday and Tuesday really puts us in a jam because that only leaves us two days to put the game plan in," Coach Irvin Favre said.

"The game plan is ready and we feel it is really good but we don't know if we will be able to get it in," Favre questioned Tuesday.

Missing practice like this can hurt a team especially when they have two big games coming up, he added.

Favre said he believed that the players would have been willing to practice but there were too many in areas that are flood zones.

"We have to look at the safety factor because if some of the them come they might not be able to get back home," he said.

Favre said the team was aware they were going up against a real fine team.

"This year's team is the best Bay high team have I have seen in a while," he said.

"They are solid all the way across and have some really outstanding seniors," Favre added.

"Their undefeated record and state ranking indicate that we have our work cut out for us," he said.

Favre said the Hawks are working hard to prepare for the Tigers five-man front defense.

"We hope to be able to move the football against their defense," Favre said.

It is going to boil down to the Hawks being able to get good field position, he said.

"The Tigers have been doing a good job of keeping teams hemmed in on their own end of the field," he said.

The Bay is good at holding teams in their own territory and forcing turnovers, he said.

"We hope to have a wide open offense this week and stay off our end of the field so the offense can be free to move around," he said.

Favre said last week the Hawks had been able to keep the number of turnovers down.

"We want another game where we control the football," he said.

"The game is going to come down to how good our offense is against the Bay's defense," he said.

CLEANUP OPERATION—Members of the Bay Area Youth Soccer Under-16 Hurricanes, looking more like mud wrestlers than soccer players, attempt to hose off the heaviest dirt after placing second in Saturday's state-wide Coke Invitational Tournament in Jackson. The Hurricanes lost in the finals to

Bay soccer Hurricanes slide to second place

Under-16

The Hurricanes lost in the finals of a Coke Invitational Tournament in Jackson Saturday 1-0 to Clinton, playing on a field that was more mud and water than grass.

Clinton scored after 10 minutes and the balance of the first half was played evenly.

The Hurricanes dominated the second half but couldn't score. Coaches feel the team would have fared better on a dry field.

The Hurricanes advanced to the finals carried by a strong defense led by Chris Riggs, sweeper; Alan Schott, goalie; Rea Montjoy, fullback; John Necaise, fullback; and Scott Necaise, fullback.

The offense was hampered by the field conditions. Rocky Rhodes led the attack with 3 goals.

This group of young men is the first group to reach the Under-16 level after starting play at Under-8 in Bay Area Youth Soccer. Coach Paul Montjoy stated, "I am extremely proud of their play, and even more impressed by the way our team conducted themselves under bad playing conditions against some of the best recreational teams in the state."

The Hurricanes are entered in the fall soccer festival at Pearl Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 9 and 10.

MALLORY MESTAYER maneuvers into position for a pass reception during a Dynamite-Heart Breaker Girls Under-12 soccer contest in Slidell Saturday.

Dynamite suffers first loss of the fall season

The Bay Area Youth Soccer Girls Under-12 Gifts-n-Gold Dynamite lost their first match of the season to Slidell's Heart Breakers, 3-0.

The Heart Breakers got two quick goals in the first quarter and one in the second, but did not penetrate the Dynamite defense past the half line the last two quarters of the game.

"We are still experimenting with positions and ability combinations," said Coach Kathy Edwards.

"It just wasn't our day - we had 15 shots on goal and all of them went over or wide of the goal box. The score does not reflect the improvement in passing and anticipation of ball movement that the girls exhibited this week," Edwards added.

Saturday Dynamite will face two Slidell teams, the Red Hots and the Girls' Under-12 Select Team, in preparation for the Mississippi Youth Soccer Association Fall Soccer Festival in Pearl Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 9 and 10.

Episcopal Raiders close season in Baton Rouge 'mud bowl' loss

Coast Episcopal High School concluded its 1985 football season Saturday afternoon by losing to Calvary Heights Baptist High School War Eagles in Baton Rouge 39 to 14.

The game was played in a drizzling rain in Baton Rouge while the field became a mud bowl.

CEHS' senior players Eric Grassit, Johnny Phelps, and Mark Truett, who arrived late in the fourth, were delayed taking Scholastic Aptitude Tests and didn't see action Saturday.

The War Eagles of Calvary Heights scored first on a two-yard TD run by Warren Johnson. The PAT was good. The score was 8 to 0.

CEHS Raiders scored on their next possession with a 40-yard TD pass from Mike Hart to Dylan Langdon.

The PAT was a two-point conversion on a pass from Chris Riggs to Victor Marchese. Score became tied 8 to 8 at the end of the first quarter.

The War Eagles opened the second quarter with a 40-yard TD pass from Joe Taylor to Johnson. The PAT was good. The score was then 16 to 8 for Calvary Heights.

The first half ended with Calvary Heights leading 24 to 8 after Ed Colton scored on a five-yard TD run and the PAT was good.

Calvary Heights opened the second half by blocking an CEHS punt and recovering in the end zone for a touchdown.

The PAT was good and the War Eagles widened the score 32 to 8.

After Bill Riggs intercepted a War

Mike Hart (7) is trying to find an opening for a pass while the War Eagles close on him.

Eagle pass, the Raiders were forced to punt. Calvary Heights scored again on a 30-yard TD pass from Taylor. The PAT was kicked bringing the score to 39 to 8.

The final Raider score came in the fourth quarter on a ten yard pass from Hart to Paul Montjoy. The PAT was no good. The game ended with a score of 39 to 14.

Dylan Langdon (2) carries a 40-yard TD pass over the goal line.

Area students selected for university singers

Auditions have been completed and new members of various choral groups at the University of Southern Mississippi have been named. Area students John Fricke of Bay St. Louis and Jeannie Rose of Pass Christian were chosen for University Singers I and II, respectively.

Vocalists for USM's 50 to 60-member University Singers I and II, and the smaller 25-member Graduate Chamber Singers are chosen from campus-wide auditions held the first week of each semester. All three groups give numerous concerts and tours.

Wildcat lady cagers to open

More experience, more depth, and the return of several key players are factors that have Pearl River Lady Cats' coach Ned Eades optimistic about the upcoming roundball season.

The Lady 'Cats, who finished 10-14 last season, will return Picayune native Carolyn Littles to the starting lineup this season. Littles was the leading rebounder last year, and was the team's second leading scorer.

Also returning are Debra Powell, Terri Rhodes of Bay St. Louis, Ann Caines, Bridgett Hall, and Deldra Rawls. This group of ladies should give the Lady 'Cats the needed experience for the new year.

Couple that experience with a group of talented freshmen consisting of Mary Mikels of Bassfield, Kim Ray of Purvis, Chris Hale of Purvis, Carol Jackson of Oak Grove, Terronica Nixon of Pearl River Central, and Sherry Williams of Forrest County and Eades has what can be a very strong team.

"I'm looking forward to the beginning of the new season," said Eades. "I think we should be better than last season because of our experience and a good group of new players. We've been working hard and are looking forward to tipping things off next month."

If the experience of the Lady 'Cats can pay off, and the young freshmen come through, the Lady 'Cats can challenge for the South Division crown. The first step towards that crown begins on Nov. 18 here at the River when the Lady 'Cats host Southwest.

USM researcher to air AIDS findings at 'social workers' Chicago symposium

A University of Southern Mississippi researcher will discuss the impact of the Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS) disease on the gay community at the 1985 National Association of Social Workers Symposium Nov. 6-9.

James D. "Don" Smith, director of admissions for the Graduate School of Social Work at USM, will address the Chicago symposium on his research performed in Virginia the last two years.

The Brookhaven native spent one year on sabbatical leave working on a doctorate degree at Virginia Commonwealth University.

Administrative leave during the second year allowed him to work with Richmond University's integrated social work program while enrolling in several additional courses.

Smith said AIDS first was identified as a disease in 1981 and, during the past four years, has spread in a manner considered epidemic in nature.

"AIDS is a very serious, life-threatening disease for which there is no known cure," he said during a recent interview. "To date, 71 percent of people diagnosed as having AIDS in the United States have been gay men and the impact of the disease on the gay community has been staggering."

"As the number of cases of AIDS increases, the impact of knowledge about the disease grows more crucial for social work therapists who see gay male clients," he added.

Smith's initial research efforts center around a number of social work intervention strategies that may be helpful to male couples who have experienced recent problems in their relationships.

He links medical aspects of the disease and the effects on individual gay men and their relationships through the presentation of a typology of gay male relationships.

Smith's focus is on men who are most likely to seek help from social workers in clinical practice, although he offers information useful for community-based intervention as well.

During his presentation, Smith will discuss the impact of AIDS on changes in sexual behavior; compulsive sexuality as it affects choice of relationship style; psycho-social barriers to intimacy; and reported changes in sexual mores within the primarily gay community.

Smith says, "There is a need for reconceptualizing gay sexuality in a more client-supportive manner, exploring constants and innovations of positive gay relationships."

Support systems, resource development, history and status of relationships, confrontation, responding, dimensions of fear and acceptance also will be highlighted during the talk.

An employee of USM since 1979, Smith received a bachelor's degree from Mississippi College in 1967 and a master's degree from Tulane University in 1970.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cochran of Loyd Star, and is married to the former Candace Ann Westbrook of McComb. They have two sons, Michael Shane, 14, and Cameron, 7.

Curriculum development documents at Library

The Bay St. Louis-Hancock Library has available for public inspection two State Department of Education documents concerning state-wide curriculum development for Mississippi schools.

'Mississippi School Library Media Programs: A Guide for Management,' issued by the Bureau of School Improvement is a handbook to be used in planning, implementing, and evaluating the school library media programs for kindergarten through 12th grades.

According to Richard Boyd, state superintendent of education, the handbook outlines competencies which must be met in order to develop the library media program as an integral part of the total instructional program.

'Curriculum Structure for The State of Mississippi: Philosophy, Goals, and Skills (Draft)' is also available for review by the public.

This document outlines the proposed state-wide school curriculum for which public hearings are being held throughout the state.

Interested persons or groups can arrange with the library to borrow the documents overnight in order to review them.

Librarians elect Wusnack, Waldrop

Two library officials from Hancock County were elected to offices at the 76th annual conference of the Mississippi Library Association Oct. 22-25 in Jackson.

Prima Wusnack, director of the Hancock County Library System, was elected secretary of the public library section of the state association.

Linda Waldrop, chairman of the Hancock County Library System Board of Trustees was elected second vice-president in charge of membership for the newly organized Friends of Mississippi Libraries.

The 600-member Mississippi Library Association is composed of librarians from public, school, university and special libraries; library trustees; and friends of libraries. The theme for the 1985 conference was "Mississippi Libraries: Essential in a Dynamic Learning Society."

"A favorite theory is a possession for life."

Powell: Pirates' record dosen't reflect their ability

STANISLAUS PLAYER Chris Riley (34) prepares to grab the football during the game against East Central last week. East Central's Don Goldman (28) eyes Riley

as he gets ready. This week the Rockchaws will be hosting Pass Christian for their Homecoming game. (Photo by John Falcon)

Riding a two-game winning streak, the St. Stanislaus Rockchaws entertain the Pass Christian Pirates in a homecoming contest to be held at Rockchaw Stadium this Friday evening at 7:30 p.m.

"Pass High is a good, quick football team whose record does not reflect their athletic ability," commented Rock Head Coach Vernon Powell.

"They are now running from the 1 and the split backfield, which helps to balance their running and passing attack. Coach Alton Wright is a good coach who always prepares his athletes for their opponents."

"As for ourselves, we are happy with our performances of the past two weeks. We are striving for consistency, however, I am a little concerned because we have not had a day of practice this week due to the hurricane."

Pass High is led by quarterback

J.W. Dedaux and running back Winston Ausmer. Another stand-out performer is tight end and linebacker Rod Jenkins.

SSC features a multiple attack, with quarterback Jimmy Dempsey having thrown for seven touchdowns thus far this season. His receiving corps is talented, led by David Zanca, Lon Baxter, David Williams and Arthur Wynne.

"We feel that if we keep our level of intensity up, and continue to play aggressively and lock our arms when we tackle, that we should give a fine account of ourselves in front of our alumni homecoming night," concluded Coach Powell.

Pirate head coach Alton Wright reports, with the exception of back Shinnal Conway who was injured in the Stone County game several weeks ago, the Pirates are in good shape for Friday's contest in Bay St. Louis.

"Everybody else is ok," the coach said.

Wright allowed he is making some personnel changes and also will present "some different fronts they haven't seen."

"If we can eliminate mistakes and get a good rushing game going we'll live up their homecoming celebration," Wright stated.

The Pass coach noted his defenses will be trained in on the passing of Rock quarterback Jimmy Dempsey. "Jimmy throws a pretty good football," Wright observed.

"At things considered, it should be a good ball game," Wright feels.

Your Stars Above

BY EVE EWING

ARIES (3-21/4-19) A sense of self-preservation protects you from a desire to gamble too freely with life. Strike a happy balance and you can enjoy an exciting, and reasonably secure future.

TAURUS (4-20/5-20) You are most at ease in an atmosphere of refinement and gentleness. The rough hurly-burly of commerce is often offensive to you. Don't let a glib talker con you into fields you don't fit.

GEMINI (5-21/6-20) If Alexander Graham Bell hadn't invented the telephone, you would have. It is your umbilical cord to the world, and phone company stockholders should erect a statue to you.

CANCER (6-21/7-22) Sensitive and sympathetic to others, you are often too hard on yourself. However, it would be a better world if there were more people with your traits of loyalty and serenity.

LEO (7-23/8-22) No matter how you strive, you will never be master of the domestic arts. Since trying only makes you and those around you irritable, seek your fulfillment in other fields.

VIRGO (8-23/9-22) Virgos must fight a fascination with hypochondria. You really do not have every ailment you read about. Make a vow not to mention your health except to your physician.

LIBRA (9-23/10-22) Your ability to draw out others while keeping your own counsel will insure your success in all fields. An even temper enhances these strong points.

SCORPIO (10-23/11-21) Alas, you are a personality of extremes and must do constant battle to keep your career and your romantic life on an even keel. But your strength of character should make it possible.

SAGITTARIUS (11-22/12-21) Life will always be the party of which you are the star, and the only thing that could spoil the fun are the ties that bind. A happy loner, you.

CAPRICORN (12-22/1-19) Although often withdrawn, you offer a strong shoulder to those who need it. Bear in mind that others are often happy to let you lean on them when you feel too alone.

AQUARIUS (1-20/2-18) Your flights of fancy are always inspired, but once you've hatched the idea, you expect others to put in the elbow grease that will make it a reality.

"Forget injuries, never forget kindness."

Sleep disorders under study at USM's 3-bdrm laboratory

Sleep has long been a mystery to mankind.

For years, it was widely considered to be a simple coma-like state somewhere between waking and death, but clinical research at the University of Southern Mississippi is adding to the body of scientific knowledge and delving into little-studied functions of the sleeping brain.

Researchers in USM's three-bedroom sleep laboratory are studying the "sleeping" brain and the "sleepy" brain and hope to discover ways to treat sleep disorders, some of which can be life-threatening.

Dr. John Harsh, experimental psychologist and professor of psychology at USM, recently conducted extensive sleep-related research projects funded by the National Institute of Health, National Institute of Mental Health, National Science Foundation and the Department of the Army.

In the first stages of his research, Harsh has been able to control his research subjects' breathing patterns at any time of the night and in any stage of sleep.

"We believe that over the last two years, we have shown clearly that we can reliably control respiratory behavior with no or minimal disruption of sleep," Harsh told a USM

Honors Forum audience Tuesday night, Oct. 1.

"This year we are beginning the clinical phase of the research," he said. "We want to determine whether we can use our understanding of the behavioral capacity of the sleeping brain to study and treat sleep-related behavioral disorders."

Harsh said "remarkably little" is known about sleep, but in the past 30 years some progress has been made. He listed three of the more important discoveries in the field as: realization that sleep is complex and dynamic—not simple and coma-like; the sleep/wake schedule is regulated by a biological clock; and sleep disorders are many and can be life-threatening.

"There are actually two types of sleep—one called rapid-eye-movement sleep (REM sleep) during which we have our most vivid and active dreams and the other-called non-REM sleep," Harsh told the USM audience of faculty, staff and students.

"Non-REM sleep consists of four different stages varying from light to deep sleep."

Further explaining the dynamic nature of sleep, Harsh noted the "topographical" or different body postures assumed during the night, contending, the single most powerful determinant of sleeping positions is age.

"An understanding of the effect of age on sleep may provide the next breakthrough in our understanding of the aging process itself," he said.

According to Harsh, biological clocks are internal physiological mechanisms that regulate our sleep/wake activities on roughly a 24-hour period.

"The four types of sleep disorders—some of which can be life-threatening—involve insomnia, or an inability to sleep; daytime sleepiness, or an inability to stay awake; disorders of the sleep/wake schedule; and unwanted behaviors intruding during sleep," Harsh said. "Sleep apnea is a syndrome in which an individual cannot sleep and breathe at the same time," he said. "They therefore must alternate between breathing and sleeping during the entire night."

Harsh said other unwanted behaviors during sleep include, teeth-grinding, bed-wetting, sleep-walking, sleep-talking, muscle spasms and night terrors.

"What we are doing here at USM is to add to the recent discoveries about the sleeping brain," Harsh said. "We are asking two general questions—what is the behavioral capacity of the sleeping brain and what is the behavioral capacity of the sleepy brain?"

"Answers to these questions will reveal more about the complexity of sleep and may help develop a behavioral technology for the treatment of sleep disorders," he said. "The answers may also help develop guidelines that will help us live successfully in an increasingly demanding society."

Southern Company has new subsidiary

Southern Company President Edward L. Addison announced the establishment of a new subsidiary—Southern Electric Investments, Inc.—for the development of new business and investment opportunities.

The subsidiary's first project, Addison said, will be a joint venture with Chronar Corporation of Princeton, N.J., for the manufacture and sale of photovoltaic panels that convert sunlight directly into electricity. The Southern Company (NYSE: SO) asked the Securities and Exchange Commission for approval of the venture.

Under terms of the proposed agreement, Southern Electric Investments would own an 85-percent interest in the photovoltaic project and would contribute $6.1 million to the building of a high technology production plant to be located in Birmingham, Ala.

Chronar (NASDAQ: CRNR) would provide engineering and technical expertise valued at approximately $1.1 million for a 15-percent interest in the venture.

The Southern Company is the parent firm of Alabama Power, Georgia Power, Gulf Power, and Mississippi Power as well as Southern Company Services, which provides specialized services at cost to the other members of the Southern electric system. In addition, The Southern Company has a consulting subsidiary—Southern Electric International—which was formed three and one-half years ago to market the system's expertise to utilities and industrial firms worldwide.

In making the announcement, Addison said "...the creation of Southern Electric Investments marks the next major step in broadening our diversification effort. Through this new subsidiary, we'll have the opportunity to participate financially and technically in the development of an alternative sources of energy ranging from photovoltaics to cogeneration."

He noted that Southern Electric Investments also has been formed to explore other business opportunities—in ventures related to energy control systems and fiber optics, for example.

Addison announced that A.W. (Bill) Dahlberg—president of Southern Company Services—will assume the additional responsibility of heading Southern Electric Investments.

Discussing the joint project with Chronar, Addison pointed out that this marks the first involvement by an American utility in the actual manufacturing of photovoltaic panels.

"It is a significant achievement for our company," Addison said. "Not only will our customers benefit from this project, but the entire industry will learn a great deal about a promising energy source. Alabama Power and the city of Birmingham deserve considerable credit for their leadership in helping make this venture possible."

The manufacturing facility will be built on land expected to be leased from the city of Birmingham. Construction is scheduled to begin by the end of the year, with the plant expected to be operational by late 1986. The facility will employ some 100 people.

On an annual basis, the plant will produce photovoltaic panels capable of generating 1,000 kilowatts of electricity—enough to supply the energy needs of approximately 250 homes.

Production of the panels will involve the latest advances in solar technology—the use of computers, lasers, and amorphous silicon. The silicon, which essentially is sprayed onto glass panels, is applied in a process that is more cost-effective than the traditional method of making photovoltaic cells. Previous silicon technology required the forming of an ingot of silicon which was then sliced into layers to be glued on the glass panels.

The terms of the joint venture agreement with Chronar give the Southern electric system the exclusive right to market the panels in its four-state region. In addition, the agreement calls for Chronar to pursue the development of a more highly automated manufacturing process which could annually produce photovoltaic panels with a maximum generating capacity of 200,000 kilowatts. Southern Electric Investments would have the option of purchasing a plant which would use that process.

refuse medical treatment for their minor child if the treatment is non-experimental, or if denial of the treatment would result in death of the child.

If parents refuse to authorize treatment that promises the child a chance to a normal, healthy growth, the state may intervene and overrule parental wishes.

Parents or guardians may commit their minor child to state mental institutions if they feel it is in the child's best interest and the child is under the age of 18 and unmarried.

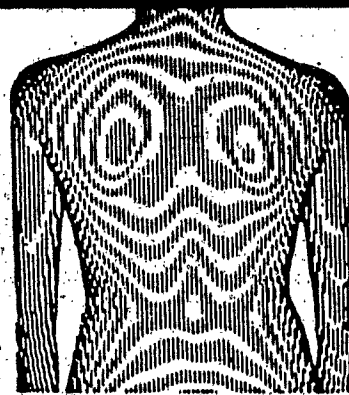

However, to assure that parents are acting in the child's best interest, Mississippi requires an independent examination by a licensed physician and a decision by the chancellor of the Chancery Court that the commitment is to the child's benefit.

It's tough to be in control when someone's out of control

"It's gone beyond the normal rebelling. I can't cope with the situation anymore. My child is changing before my eyes."

What looks like "bad" adult behavior may seem to an adolescent the only way to respond to fear and confusion. If the behavior patterns below look familiar, your child may be under severe stress and calling for help.

- Sharp, hostile outbursts
- Abrupt changes in mood
- Secretive behavior, lying
- Isolation from the family, marked withdrawal
- Deterioration of school performance
- Excessive sensitivity to criticism, defensiveness

It may be easier to wait and hope the problem will go away. But while we're waiting, one in four adolescents experiment with alcohol and drugs. While we struggle to regain control, one in 10 become addicted.

Your adolescent could be showing signs of serious emotional stress or depression. You both may need a fresh perspective. Call the NorthShore Psychiatric Hospital. Talk to an experienced counselor who will recommend the right help. It's confidential. It's your chance to regain control of yourself and someone you love.

We're here when you need us...

Montgomery urging military hospital computers be modeled after VA system

Congressman G. V. (Sonny) Montgomery (D-MS), chairman of the House Veterans' Affairs Committee and a ranking member of the Armed Services Committee, introduced an amendment to the FY '86 Department of Defense Authorization Act that "could save hundreds of millions of dollars by looking at a new way of acquiring computer systems to manage DOD hospitals."

"The Defense Department has received a lot of adverse publicity recently regarding coffee makers and hammers and ashtrays and toilet seats which were purchased at obscene prices," said Montgomery. "We certainly don't want to see such abuses extended to anything as critically important as a computer system. This amendment will make certain that they take the blinders off and use some common sense in computerizing their hospitals."

The amendment would require the three branches of the Armed Services to conduct tests of the VA decentralized hospital computer program (DHCP) to determine if it can be adapted to work in DOD hospitals in areas such as admissions, discharge and transfer, scheduling, pharmacy, laboratory, data base management and electronic mail.

The Department of Defense has spent more than $200 million in the past 10-12 years to develop TRIMIS (Tri-Services Medical Information System), a hospital computer program, yet not a single DOD hospital has been fully automated. It is estimated that an additional $700 million may be required to complete development of the program.

"On the other hand," said Montgomery, "the Veterans Administration has successfully automated 169 of its 172 hospitals at a cost to date of less than $130 million. The VA decentralized hospital computer system is capable of serving medical computer needs well into the 21st century," noted Montgomery.

"DHCP has already gone through a shakedown. It works, and it works well. DOD can simply use the system developed by the VA, share VA software and technicians, and save time and money."

In testimony presented to the Veterans' Affairs subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations last September, Dr. Paul W. Schafer, executive director of the National Association of VA Physicians, stated that "in these times of soaring federal deficits and the obvious need to cut federal spending, it is startling to find that the Department of Defense is preparing to squander such of our treasure, when they can have the effective, in-house developed, public domain software of the Veterans Administration almost for free, and right now, not years later."

Veterans Administration hospitals are the primary backup to DOD hospitals in the event of a major conflict. "Doesn't it make sense to have a computer system that lets each know what the other is doing?" asked Montgomery.

Comparing DHCP and TRIMIS, Montgomery noted that he had heard statements that the VA system "is a 1985 Chevy, and DOD wants a 1990 Mercedes."

In response, Montgomery claims that the average taxpayer "doesn't want DOD to buy a Mercedes in five years when military hospitals need computers today, and the VA's system can be tailored to suit their needs. All we're saying is 'don't buy a system until you've looked closely at one that the government already owns,'" said Montgomery. "It just might save us a billion dollars or so."

Hollywood Marquee by James S. Leach

HOLLYWOOD — Actually my dateline should be Napa Valley, as I've just returned from this beautiful area of northern California, known worldwide for wine and soap. Wine you drink and soap you watch.

My purpose in the land of grapes was to catch up on the latest happenings with the cast of CBS Television's blockbuster prime-time soap "Falcon Crest." After spending time with nearly every member of the cast, I've got to admit I'm impressed with their combined confidence and enthusiasm. Though their screen antics may not show it, take my word, this is as close to one big happy family as you're going to find anywhere in television.

From "Falcon Crest's" mainstays Janie Wyman, Susan Sullivan and David Selby on to newcomers Morgan Fairchild, Ken Olin and Apollonia, the vibes are positive as the show enters its fifth season.

Among the cast there's an air of cautious optimism whenever their Friday night competition is mentioned. "I've got a lot of respect for 'Miami Vice,' and I know they've got a very loyal following," notes Billy Moses. "I just feel they've got their audience and we've got ours... and the size of ours is going to keep us above them in the ratings."

Ken Olin, who for the last year pounded the beat on "Hill Street Blues," chimes in agreement. "I'm very excited about coming to this show, and I see us having a solid year in the top ten." Olin plays Father Christopher, a priest who falls in love with Moses' on-screen wife, Melissa, played by one of the prettiest ladies in Hollywood, Ana Alicia.

Keeping this very large ensemble of nearly twenty very large egos feeling happy and secure are Executive Producers Earl Hamner and Michael Filerman. Hamner, the same man who brought "The Waltons" to national fame, states with pride, "On 'Falcon Crest,' we've got one of the hardest working and most dedicated groups I've ever worked with. The success of this show stems from the attitude of cooperation shown by all involved. Our writers, our technicians, our production crew and our cast join forces with one thought in mind... the success of 'Falcon Crest.'"

Bringing strong credentials to the "Crest" are Morgan Fairchild and Apollonia. Miss Fairchild plays an attorney who has been hired by Richard Channing (David Selby) to help him rescue his empire from the ashes he was left in at the end of last season. Apollonia plays all things. Apollonia, a rising rock star who catches the eye of Lance Cumson (Lorenzo Lamas).

Revolution in communication

By C. James Haug
Department of History
Mississippi State University

We are on the eve of a revolution in communications, one that has the potential to transform dramatically all of our lives. This, like all true revolutions, will affect every aspect of human life from the ways we think to the means by which we earn our livings. Above all, the coming revolution will change the kinds of things a person must know in order to prosper.

Social revolutions are generally caused by developments in technology. For us in modern times perhaps the revolution with the greatest impact has been in the realm of communication. Consider for a moment just how isolated and ignorant man was before technological advances began to connect him to the world away from his doorstep.

Before the fifteenth century invention of printing, the ability to communicate with anyone other than a nearby listener was limited to a tiny group of professional scribes. All reading material was handwritten, and creating one copy of one book required hundreds of hours. Nineteen out of every 20 persons were illiterate, viewed writing as a total mystery, and knew nothing of the world beyond their villages except for accounts related by rare visitors.

With printing, for the first time, large numbers of people could communicate with those they could neither see nor hear. Increases in literacy meant that ideas could be quickly shared. Political and religious authorities found they could not limit their constituents' access to information. They were forced into new roles. Nation states arose as a new method of organizing society.

More recent revolutions in communication rose out of the development of mass transport. Until this century, physically moving from place to place was difficult. With the introduction of railroads and automobiles, people could for the first time travel a significant distance from the home fire. For a small sum the traveller could in a few hours be in a great city or in another country. For our ancestors, whose notions of long-distance travel had been limited by the speed of a farm wagon, such travel was magic.

In the same way that printing brought people together through ideas, mechanical transportation brought them together physically.

The introduction of the telegraph, telephone, radio and television hastened change, bringing war into our living rooms and involving us intellectually or emotionally with such far away events as the plight of a missing child or the love life of panderers. Isolation was decreased, horizons expanded, and those who knew how to communicate with others in different cities or continents prospered beyond their wildest dreams.

We are now at the beginning of a fourth revolution in communication technology that has the potential to dwarf the others in terms of its effect on daily life. Machines now can take information and use it to make decisions. High-tech devices perform increasingly sophisticated tasks. The digital watch that once could only provide the time and date now gives its owner military time, lap time, accuracy to one hundredth of a second, and sound effects!

Indeed, the world of high technology is about to take a dramatic leap forward as more communicating power is put into smaller boxes.

Rural isolation will again diminish and, for all practical purposes, disappear. Individuals will be part of a world-wide information network, and dealing with another person in Calcutta will be no more difficult or expensive than now working with one in Biloxi.

This revolution has many implications, but the greatest impact will be on education. No longer will preparation for living in a single community be enough. No longer will preparation for a specialized career be enough. The successful and prosperous will be those equipped with knowledge enabling them to deal with peoples from cultures different from their own. Those with the broad perspective provided by knowledge of history, language, and literature will succeed in this world. Those with knowledge limited to one culture will be left behind.

The time to begin preparing our children for this world is upon us—if we fail, they will be losers.

LEVEL BEST

Budgeting your money can be a real challenge. Especially when bills vary from month to month. Mississippi Power can help.

Our leveled billing plan allows you to know month to month about how much you'll be paying for electricity. Some months you pay less than the amount of your current bill and some months more, but this plan will help you budget your money.

Levelized billing is just one of our good ideas about customer service. Others:

- Delayed Due Date (3-D) Program. If you're on a limited income assistance plan, we may be able to change the due date on your bill to accommodate the date you receive your check.
- Third Party Notification. This service makes sure someone is contacted when there's a serious billing problem.

• L.I.V.E. (Lines Into Vital Equipment). An emergency response program for customers with electrically powered life support equipment.

• E.F.T. (Electrical Funds Transfer). Lets you pay your bill automatically through your bank.

• Major Appliance Sales and Service. Available at most of our offices, and you may be able to buy through monthly installments on your power bill.

Call us to find out if you qualify for the special programs listed above. At Mississippi Power, good electric service and good customer service go together.

TIPS FOR A SAFE AND FUN

HALLOWEEN

HALLOWEEN SAFETY TIPS

1. Give children a meal or snack before they go out and emphasize that no treats should be eaten until they get home.
2. Costumes should fit properly and be of flame-retardant materials. Use light colors or reflective tape so that trick-or-treaters are visible at night.
3. Masks should have holes large enough to allow adequate breathing and vision. Cut to adjust if necessary.
4. Trick-or-treat in familiar neighborhoods, stopping only at well-lit places. Go with parents or in a group. Never talk to strangers.

5. Set a specific time for children to return home.
6. Walk on sidewalks and follow all pedestrian signs. NEVER RUN.
7. All candy, wrapped and unwrapped, should be checked. If in doubt, throw away.
8. Have your trick-or-treat candy X-rayed free Halloween night from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at Hancock General Hospital. Please enter through the front lobby.

Halloween safety tips courtesy of the Bay St. Louis Police Department.
Chief Ray Murphy invites all trick-or-treaters to the station for a treat.
